Dally is considered as one of the Greasers. He hangs out with Ponyboy and Johnny Cade. His real name is Dallas Winston. Dally seems like a real tough character and maybe even like a bully and sometimes even rude. He doesn't really like to do what authority or society tells him to do. "They enjoy the challenge of sneaking in because Dally hates to do anything the legal way" (Hinton 48). Dally and his friends don't pay for the movies because they sneak in and it is usually because of Dally's lead (Hinton 48). Dally is also considered one of the more hard core thugs because he was known to be from gangs in New York (Hinton 75). Dally seems to have a lot of vulgarity, outspoken and disrespectful behavior. He also seems like an outlaw not obeying the laws of society. "he got drunk, he rode in rodeos, lied, cheated, stole, rolled drunks, jumped small kids—he did everything. I didn't like him, but I had to respect him" (Hinton 148). Dally would always get drunk, rode in rodeos, cheat and stole. He would even beat up little kids (Hinton 148).

A new DCMA CPSR Guidebook has been released effective May 29, 2018 and can be found here: The Redstone team will be conducting a more comprehensive review of the guidebook, but we want to share our initial thoughts with readers. What DID Change From first inspection, it appears that there were a few little updates to Parts 1-4 as well as some minor changes to the appendices portion of the Guidebook. Changes within Parts 1-4 consisted primarily of updated references to the new appendix added for Subcontractor and Vendor Closeout (Appendix 27). Truth in Negotiations Act (TINA) Surprisingly, no updates were made to Appendix 2 Truth in Negotiations Act (TINA) or to any of the other TINA references throughout the Guidebook. We would expect a subsequent update for the new threshold changes (TINA, et al.), which should be made to the FAR within the next few weeks if the FAR Council follows the guidance from the 2018 NDAA. We Finally See Documentation Revisions Appendix 16 Documentation included some minimal changes from the last overhaul in March of 2018, which were primarily focused on updating/adding references. Consistency in documentation requests has continually been a challenge when dealing with CPSR audit teams, so this appears to be a welcome push for consistency on what is "required" for a CPSR audit. Reach Out to Us with CPSR Guidebook Questions If you have any questions or notice any other changes we'd love to hear from you. Likewise, if you're struggling to prepare for a CPSR or just wondering when it applies and where to start we're here for you. We assist contractors all over the world with preparation, mock audit and general strategy when working with DCMA CPSR teams. In this blog post you'll learn how you can prepare today for a CPSR, or contractor purchasing systems review. This blog post will give you a few tips on how to have a successful audit and review of your procurement systems. Failure to pass a CPSR can result in loss of revenue for a contractor, so it is in the company's best interest to prepare in advance for the day a contractor purchasing systems review notice comes in. Who Is A Candidate For A CPSR, Or Contractor Purchasing System Review? Any company who is expected to make $50mm in sales volume with the federal government in the next 12 months. These include all contracts/subcontracts, excluding competitively awarded firm-fixed-price, competitively awarded fixed-price with economic price adjustment contracts, or sales of commercial items pursuant to FAR part 12 These may be performed every three years at the administrative contracting officer's (ACO) determination. What Is the Purpose Of A CPSR Contractor Purchasing System Reviews are conducted with the intent to ensure the contracting company's purchasing systems are adequate and operating effectively, compliant with all applicable rules and regulations, and operating effectively. In essence, the ACO is determining how efficiently and effectively the contractor company is using government funds. These report findings are then used to grant, withhold, or withdraw approval of the purchasing system. What Are Some Common Issues And Findings In A Contractor Purchasing System Review? Common issues and findings in a contractor purchasing system review (CPSR) include: Contractor does not perform and document effective price or cost analysis for purchase transactions, modifications, and change orders utilizing the guidelines in FAR § 15.404-1. (DFARS § 252.244-7001(c)(10) Contractor does not obtain adequate certified cost or pricing data for their subcontracts subject to TINA/Truthful Cost or Pricing Data. Source: FAR §§ 52.215-12 and -13 Establish and maintain selection processes to ensure the most responsive and responsible sources for furnishing required quality parts and materials and to promote competitive sourcing among dependable suppliers so that purchases are from sources that meet contractor quality requirements, including the requirements of 252.246-7007, Contractor Counterfeit Electronic Part Detection and Avoidance System. (DFARS § 252.244-7001(c)(3) Not all noncompetitive awards include some type of price analysis. Source: DCMA CPSR Guidebook, May 29, 2018 For more examples, see our CPSR guide here. What Happens If We Fail A CPSR? Any contracting company that fails a CPSR, or contractor purchasing systems review, is subject to withholding of 5%. For more information visit our guide on CPSR audit failures. How Do We Prepare For A CPSR? CPSRs never happen on a random, surprise basis. Your company will never be notified that a CPSR will be happening today or tomorrow. Usually, the ACO will let a company new months in advance that a CPSR for the previous 12 months will be happening. Some tips for a successful CPSR include: Adherence to clearly outlined policies and internal procedures that comply with FAR and DFARS requirements Implement and carry out regular internal audits and reviews to make sure these policies and procedures are being followed Use competitive sourcing whenever possible, not just when it is convenient for the company Document all negotiations in accordance with FAR 15 Take advantage of all possible discounts. These include cash discounts, trade discounts, quantity discounts, etc. Study the guidebook and all references that DCMA provides Have at least one member of the executive team and all other participants at the entrance meeting Choose a point of contact to be a liaison with the CPSR team The federal government has clearly outlined all the necessary steps in order to stay compliant with regulations and laws. CPSRs are not designed to try to punish companies, but rather to make sure contractors and sub-contractors are using government funds in the most efficient way possible. Still, there are several ways that a company contracting with the government can accidentally slip into non-compliance. Don't let that company be yours. Contact us today and see how we can help you have a successful CPSR experience.
